Reviling the State

Newspaper correspondents at Reno have done more to defame the name of this state than any other influence through the circulation of reports damaging to citizens, courts and officials. The business of sending out reports to sensational newspapers is one that calls for a peculiar quality in the men entrusted with the work. They serve outside journals and have their special standards of decency or enterprise to govern their conduct, and therefore, they are not amenable to the criticism of local readers to the same extent as they would be if they were employed exclusively in purveying for home consumption. Nevertheless there is a limit to the expansion of news or the injection of ginger in reports. News may be colored to meet special requirements, but when writers boldly and indelibly in rank mendacity they should not expect to be treated with gentlemanly consideration.

One of the worst fakes perpetrated on the outside papers was in the case of Trammier when first sentenced to death by shooting. The story that no one could be found willing to execute the law was sent out broadcast and the various phorids of human interest were played on until the subject was worn threadbare. This resulted in a deluge of applications from sure shots and gunmen from all parts of the world applying for the job of sending a human being to his doom. The law was scoffed at and the state was derided for maintaining an archaic condition. Now the story has been revived and started on the well beaten trail around the world. The poor, wretched murderer of Marie Quillet is pictured as an occupant of the death chamber with the state of Nevada advertising for legal slayers and the minds of readers are tortured with contemplation of the misery endured and the probability of final escape from death on account of the impotency of Nevada laws.

Now for the facts. At no time was there the slightest doubt about the execution of the sentence of the court. None of the guards said he would not do as ordered and the warden was prepared for the worst when a stay of execution came and the prisoner was arraigned for another trial. The majesty of the law will be vindicated at the proper time and in the manner prescribed in the statutes, and there will be no respite for the double-dyed assassin whose brutality is illustrated by his lethargic calmness in the face of his impending doom.

Tonopah Leads the List

In the quarterly report of the Chicago Mining and Engineering World on dividend disbursements from mines and metal industries the name of Tonopah appears at the top of the column with a total of $800,475 to its credit, save the small dividend of the Yellow Pine, amounting to $1900. For the same period last year the Goldfield Consolidated figured as the leader. The credits are given as follows: Tonopah, Nevada, $400,000; Tonopah Belmont, $375,000; Tonopah Extension, $23,575; Yellow Pine, $1900. Concerning the financial condition of the mines covered by the review the Mining World says:

"Seventy American companies which depend on the operations of mines and works for their profits began the year 1913 by paying dividends in January totaling $12,787,051. This compares with $10,502,129 paid by 41 companies during the same period in 1912.

"The copper properties, 12 in number, all but one in the United States, lead for the month with $3,509,089 to their credit. Over half of this amount, or $2,249,373, was disbursed by the Anaconda Copper company, which, during 1912, paid dividends totaling $9,748,125. To date this company has enriched shareholders to the extent of $72,269,998.

"Fifty-two of the 70 companies mentioned above, classed as gold-silver-lead producers, contributed $4,959,848 to last month's total, which compares with $4,514,811 paid by 32 companies during January, 1912. A year ago Goldfield Con paid a dividend totaling $1,779,574, but paid no dividend last month. Thirty-six of the 52 companies operate properties in the United States and have to their credit during the month just ended dividends totaling $2,187,813. Tonopah of Nevada leading with $400,000. Canadian companies, 11 in number, were able to divide $2,004,242 among shareholders, while five Mexican companies disbursed $767,793."

It is a compliment to the enterprise and push of Wells, Nevada, that Twin Falls, her big neighbor on the north, seeks co-operation for the construction of a railroad between both points by way of the new mining camp of Contact which is heralded as a sure comer.

San Francisco has such a grudge against all things pertaining to Nevada that it is not surprising to hear of a farmer resident of this state having been deported as an undesirable. Well, just wait.

When the legislative committee is engaged cleaning out the public crib let them casually inquire why the payrolls contain the names of so many wives, daughters and other relatives.

California boasts that over one-half of the population is native born. Nevada can do better than that, although it does not brag of being the birthplace of the Golden West.

It did not require the actual report of the state census taker to assure the world that Nevada mines are sure enough dividend payers. The information, like most of the contents of official biennial reports, is just about two years late and the state might have been spared the cost of printing. By cutting out a lot of these verbose homomorphisms and appointing a competent editor to blue pencil the official reports the state could easily save the best part of $1000. The chief aim of Nevada state officials appears to be to see who can write the longest and least interesting report and some of them are padded with material that has been printed every two years ever since the sixties. The printer's art should not be employed to enshrine the ossified ideas of men who have few thoughts beyond the one of drawing salaries for themselves and all their relatives.

The humane instincts of the lawmakers in trouble at Carson may be gathered from the consideration they are willing to pay to chronic lawbreakers. The latest and most ludicrous measure is one providing for the resumption of gambling under police surveillance. Sam Davis or George A. Montrose, the local jokesters, must have had a hand in preparing the bill which contains the following stipulation: "THE PLACE IS TO BE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC AT ALL TIMES." Whoever heard of gambling behind closed doors with a permission from the legislature to operate. It would have been different had the bill stipulated for the exclusion of the public. But the real joke is that the bill implies that gambling houses shall run 24 hours a day when the owners feel like it.
